

WILSON-SMITH LIFE PROFILE

A tool to help plan one's next success story

The Wilson-Smith Life Profile™ was created to help individuals over 40 plan their futures. It is appropriate for both career and retirement planning activities.

The tool is administered electronically and includes about 100 questions which focus on key enablers and drivers. The information is collected in the context of one's current and desired commitments. While other instruments help measure parts of this information, the Wilson-Smith Life Profile™ is designed to create an integrated thought process.

A feedback report with content based on individual responses is provided along with a planning template.

The Wilson-Smith Life Profile™ can be used by itself, in conjunction with New Beginnings Project Workshops, or in working with a professional coach.

Individuals access the tool through certified New Beginnings Project Professionals who are experienced coaches familiar with the tool and the subject of late career transitional planning.
